FIRE HALL SEISMIC UPGRADE

The City of Duncan is proud to announce the completion of the seismic upgrades to the Fire Hall. The project was funded by the City with financial contributions from the Eagle Heights and Cowichan Tribes fire service areas. The thirty-one year old Fire Hall also has new siding and roofing, energy efficient lighting, and water conserving plumbing in reconfigured gender equal washrooms. These changes, along with the removal of asbestos and lead based hazardous materials, will give the Fire Hall a new life to meet the needs of the community for the foreseeable future.

The City would like to thank all the members of the Duncan Volunteer Fire Department for their efforts throughout this process. The Fire Chief welcomes the public to have a look during their Wednesday (7:30 p.m.) or Sunday (9:00 a.m.) meetings.

ADVISORY DESIGN PANEL

Council recently created an Advisory Design Panel (ADP) to assist Council on matters relating to the design context of development proposals or policies that affect Duncan's physical environment.

The ADP will review and advise Council on the conformance of major development permit applications (commercial development over 200 square meters, or residential development with 5 or more units) and other matters referred to it by Council or staff.

The ADP consists of five voting members and one Council liaison appointed by Council as follows: two architects registered with the Architectural Institute of BC; one landscape architect registered with the BC Society of Landscape Architects; one planner currently a member of the Canadian Institute of Planners; one accredited member of the Canadian Green Building Council and certified Built Green builder, and one Council liaison (non-voting).

The ADP must consider the relevant Development Permit Area Guidelines within the context and scope of the proposal, the effect of the proposal on community design (including appearance and contextual relationship to its surroundings, exterior materials, landscaping and general safety and accessibility of the design), as well as any other relevant City policies or regulations identified by staff.

For projects in which a conflict of interest exists, the panel member will absent him/herself from discussions and panel members serve as volunteers, without remuneration.

Council and staff would like to thank the ADP members, as well as all the other Advisory Committee members, for volunteering their time for the betterment of the City.

If you have a suggestion for a future newsletter topic, we'd love to hear from you.

CITY OF DUNCAN'S TOTEM COLLECTION

Featured Pole - Cedar Woman and Man

The totem pole featured here is called 'Cedar Woman and Man' and was carved by Simon Charlie (right) in 1986. The pole stands 4.7 meters tall and is located in China Gardens on Government Street.

The woman and man are wearing woven Salish blankets and on the base are symbols that are important to the Quw'utsun' people. The two figures represent a balance between the female and male aspects of life.

During an interview in 2012, Tim Kuchylski (Simon Charlie's grandson), provided the following statement:

Cedar woman is the originator of all of our woven materials...she had a dream, and in the dream she was taught how to weave, and she was taught not only how to weave but how to collect cedar roots, how to split the roots, how to weave reeds, how to weave basketry, how to weave clothing, how to weave red cedar and yellow cedar...her gift was to teach, and so she taught people how to weave, and brought weaving to the community and brought weaving to a finite skill.

Simon Charlie, 1919-2005, was a visionary, a master carver, and a keeper of his cultural heritage. A recipient of both the Order of Canada and the Order of British Columbia, Simon was known for his passion for teaching carving and Salish traditions to younger generations. In typical Salish style, his totem poles were carved in the round and mostly left unpainted. Simon is Kwa'mutsun, part of the Quw'utsun' Tribes. Titus Auckland helped Simon with this pole.

The City's Totem collection is world-class. We encourage you to take a self-guided totem tour to learn more about the artists and what the poles represent.

SXWAIXWE CEREMONY

The City of Duncan restored the Salish Bear Totem Pole to its original design and colouring and has installed it back at its original location - the Malahat Summit rest area. A Sxwaixwe mask dance and ceremony was held at the site to honour the carver, Stan Modeste and his family.

The Sxwaixwe mask is the only traditional Coast Salish mask and only a limited number of families have hereditary rights to it. The City was honoured and privileged to be part of such an impressive ritual, and would like to thank the Modeste family, and Cowichan Tribes, for allowing us to participate.

Interpretive signage, identical to the signage installed in Charles Hoey Park, was also installed at the site.
